Presidents' Community Partner Award

Appalachian Mountain Club

White Mountains Community College

White Mountains Community College is honoring Chris Thayer and John Judge of the Appalachian Mountain Club with the Presidents' Community Partner Award. Their commitment to WMCC has been very impressive. While WMCC has had a partnership with AMC for many years, they have had a tremendous impact this year on educational programs concerning youth organizations. Starting in the fall, they will be part of our new Resort and Recreation Management Degree, by directly offering our students an opportunity for internships regarding the Nature-Based Tourism piece of this new degree. The AMC will be providing most of the training through their leadership program, which will be based out of their Highland Center in Crawford Notch. The AMC's innovative ideas will always be a guiding star for our programs, and we are excited to see our partnership with them grow.
